(See information in the "Add a course" form if you have any questions regarding specific items.)

3450W. Anthropological Perspectives on Art

(285) Three credits

Approaches to cultural creativity and aesthetics in the graphic and plastic arts of pre-state societies. Examples from North America, Oceania, and Africa. (CA1)

Justification

1. Reasons for changing this course: To enable the students to learn and analyze what they are learning in this course, they need to write every week and produce a synthetic paper-museum exhibit proposal at the end of the semester in which they address some of the following issues: what is art? What is an artist? How can art be represented? Where? When? What kind of collaborations are/should be encouraged to rethink museum representations? How would you address the representations of specific objects of your choice in a major US museum? Or at an international museum? At the end of the semester they produce a 20-page document similar to one produced by professional curator to guide the thematic selections of works of art for primarily discussed by the museum exhibition team.

2. Effect on Department's curriculum: There would be another W course for a non-ethnographic course, and there is a paucity of W courses in general in our department offered to students every semester so they can all graduate on time

3. Other departments consulted: none

4. Effects on other departments: none

5. Effects on regional campuses: The course has never been taught on regional campuses

6. Staffing: Full-time faculty

7. Dates approved by

Department Curriculum Committee: May 10, 2013

Department Faculty: May 10, 2013
