International Graduate Admissions
Flow Chart

Step 1:

Students Apply to UConn through Hobsons Apply yourself. International Students informed of documents they will need to submit for I-20 if they are admitted.

Step 2:

Program/Department Admission Committee makes decisions and admits students in Hobsons for The Graduate School to review for admission.

Step 3:

The Graduate School conducts final reviews and admits qualified applicants in Hobsons and PeopleSoft. E-mail notification of decision sent to student.

Step 4:

Student logs into application to review admission letter. International students have admission letter that explains 1-20 application process with link to request form from ISSS.

Step 5:

Student receives two e-mails from UITS at the time of admission to email address used in Hobsons application regarding their NetID and how to activate their NetID. Student activates their NetID – NetID and password are needed to request an I-20.

Step 6:

Student "accepts" the admission offer via "Enrollment Form" link in the admission decision letter in application. Enrollment link WILL dissapear after set deadlines. Admission packets of confirmed students will be forwarded to ISSS to be added to their I-20 request files.

Step 7:

Student submits their I-20 requests directly to ISSS via I-20 online request form (indicated in the admission email notice, also at http://global.uconn.edu/i-20ds-2019-online-request/) – using their NetID & password. Student will ONLY receive correspondece to their UCONN.EDU email addresses.

Step 8:

Student receives an email notice(s) from ISSS regarding their I-20 request status.

If all submitted documents are in order, students are notified that the file is ready for processing.

If documentation/information is incorrect or missing in the request file, students receive instructions to resubmit the correct documents/info.

Step 9:

The Graduate School matriculates student when all OFFICIAL admission documents have been received. i.e. official transcripts and diploma/ degree certificate.

Step 10:

When I-20 and matriculation packet are both complete, The Graduate School will notfiy departement for pick up.

Step 11:

Departments double check correct mailing address with students, add departmental materials and expedite packets to students.
